Dear Editor,
For immediate release:

Allianz General highlights flood readiness as monsoon season brings heavy rainfall

Kuala Lumpur, 12 November 2026 – With the 2026/2027 northeast monsoon season underway, Allianz General Insurance Company (Malaysia) Berhad (Allianz General) is calling on Malaysians to stay vigilant and take proactive steps to prepare for heightened flood risks.

This comes as the Malaysian Meteorological Department (MetMalaysia) expects the monsoon to bring three to five episodes of prolonged heavy rainfall between November 2026 and January 2027. Already there have been floods reported in several areas across the country including Penang, Kedah, Pahang and the Klang Valley.

"Malaysia's geographical location makes us especially susceptible to floods, which can cause devastating and far-reaching damage. It is crucial to stay aware of the latest developments and to be adequately prepared and protected for when the waters rise," said Allianz General Chief Executive Officer, Sean Wang.

Below are some recommended measures to take as the monsoon season progresses:

- Monitor the latest weather forecasts and flood alerts. Utilise apps and websites that provide real-time information on flood risks and warnings.
    - METMalaysia - Weather Forecast for States
    - National Disaster Management Agency (NADMA)
    - MyCuaca - Malaysia Weather Forecast, Map & Advisories (free app available to download on Google Play and Apple App Store)
- Prepare an emergency plan for your home that includes evacuation routes, communication methods and designated meeting points, and ensure all household members are familiar with the plan.
- Have an emergency kit containing essential items such as water, non-perishable food, medication, flashlight, batteries, first aid kit, power bank and important documents.
- Digitise important documents such as identification cards, financial records and insurance policies, and keep the physical copies in a safe, waterproof place.

- Never attempt to walk, swim or drive through floodwaters, and report downed power lines to the authorities immediately.

Beyond individual preparedness, businesses – particularly small and medium enterprises (SMEs) – are among the most vulnerable to flood-related disruptions.

Allianz General's 'General Flood Guideline' for commercial and SME policyholders offers practical operational and business continuity considerations to be carried out before, during and after flooding, as well as useful contact information for relevant government agencies. The Guideline can be accessed at https://www.allianz.com.my/library/risk-engineering-consulting/flood-guidelines-commercial-sme.html#.

Allianz General encourages Malaysians to review their insurance coverage and ensure they have adequate protection against flood damage. Homeowners and renters can opt for home insurance that covers unexpected events such as floods and insures both the building structure and household contents, while motorists are urged to ensure their car or motor insurance policy includes Special Perils coverage.
