Allianz Life Global High Payout Fund

Investment Objective

The Global High Payout Fund (the "Fund") feeds into Allianz Global Investors Premier Funds- Allianz Global High Payout Fund (USD) ["CIS"] and has a two-part investment strategy. Firstly, the investment manager invests in stocks from a globally diversified universe that offer a high and sustainable dividend yield. In a second step call options on these stocks are sold to generate option premium, enhancing dividends and reducing overall portfolio risk. By these means the Funds' investment objective is to provide a total return from dividend income, option premiums and capital appreciation that should lead to sustainable distributions to investors.

Investor Profile

The Fund is designed for investors who want regular and sustainable potential high payouts.

November 2018

Allianz Life Global High Payout Fund

Manager's Comment

Portfolio Highlights

The Fund registered gain of 1.39% in November, outperforming the MSCI World which rose 0.69%.

What helped

- The fund posted a sideways performance in a difficult market environment in which high dividend stocks lagged equity markets.

What hurt

- In a strongly negative market environment, the Fund posted a weaker return than its customised benchmark.

Market Review & Outlook

- After the previous month's turbulence, November was a quieter month for global equity markets. Most started the month on a brighter note, lifted by hopes of thawing US-Chinese trade tensions. Uncertainty over the US mid-term elections was also alleviated when the results were broadly in line with expectations. However, markets generally lost ground in the second half of the month, with the threat of further US tariffs, Brexit, Italy's budget and heightened tensions between Russia and Ukraine weighing on sentiment. In general, emerging markets outperformed developed-market stocks.
- Health Care was the best performing sector. However, the technology sell-off continued, fuelled by speculation that Apple had cut production of its latest iPhone models due to weak sales. Semiconductor stocks were also undermined by Chinese allegations of price fixing. Energy stocks fell as oil prices plunged, entering an official bear market.
- Geopolitical risks continue to be a burden on the global equity markets. Still, there has been some success on the political front. The European Union (EU) has accepted the Brexit agreement and thus paved the way for the UK's leaving the Union. At the same time, Italy has signalled that it is willing to work towards a compromise in the budget dispute with the EU. Turning to other areas of the globe, it would certainly be premature to talk of "success" in the trade conflict between the US and China. In addition, economic momentum is continuing to diverge. While the US economy still appears quite healthy, first signs of weakness are emerging in other regions. Still, the global economy as a whole does not seem to be at the brink of a recession.
