Allianz Life Global High Payout Fund

Investment Objective

The Global High Payout Fund (the "Fund") feeds into Allianz Global Investors Premier Funds- Allianz Global High Payout Fund (USD) ["CIS"] and has a two-part investment strategy. Firstly, the investment manager invests in stocks from a globally diversified universe that offer a high and sustainable dividend yield. In a second step call options on these stocks are sold to generate option premium, enhancing dividends and reducing overall portfolio risk. By these means the Funds' investment objective is to provide a total return from dividend income, option premiums and capital appreciation that should lead to sustainable distributions to investors.

Investor Profile

The Fund is designed for investors who want regular and sustainable potential high payouts.

November 2019

Allianz Life Global High Payout Fund

Manager's Comment

Portfolio Highlights

The Fund registered gain of 2.48% in November, outperforming the MSCI World which rose 1.51%.

What helped

- The Fund could outperform global equity markets and posted a positive total return. In an upward market, the Fund could also outperform its defensive benchmark.
- The defensive positioning of the Fund allows it to perform better than equity markets should volatility increase and investors seek stocks that could provide for a sustainable dividend yield.

Market Review & Outlook

- Global equities advanced over November, boosted by optimism over a "phase one" trade deal between the US and China, better-than-expected Q3 corporate earnings and stronger-than-forecast economic news. Corporate activity also picked up, with a plethora of cross-border deals. However, sentiment soured slightly towards the month end amid fears that China would retaliate after US president Donald Trump signed into law a bill backing Hong Kong's anti-government demonstrators.
- At a sector level, many of October's themes continued into November, with Technology and Health Care stocks increasing the most, while rising bond yields undermined sectors considered to be bond proxies, such as Real Estate and Utilities.
- Oil prices advanced modestly, with Brent crude ending November at around USD 64 a barrel. Conversely, gold weakened slightly as an increasing appetite for risk caused investors to rotate out of safe-haven assets.
- While the outlook for the global economy appears cautiously favourable, growth looks set to remain weak, and geopolitics (take, for example, the trade conflict between the US and China) spell downside risks. The generous monetary policy of the major international central banks should continue to support the equity markets for now, but its impact is likely to wane. At the same time, investors' attention will probably shift towards economic data and corporate earnings. Global equity funds recently registered significant inflows, which may lead to additional investments, particularly as equity prices rise. Overall, we believe that volatility will remain elevated and that we will see increasing disparity between individual stocks, sectors and countries. In principle, this environment is favourable for an active investment approach.
